WILL PLANT 1,300 TREES ON 'FIELD

The National Park Service in its plans to restore the battlefield toward its appearance at the time of the battle in 1863 will reforest three areas of the park with 1,300 seedlings.

Park Superintendent Kittridge A. Wing said today that approximately 15 acres of existing meadows will be reforested in hardwoods to present those areas of the field as they appeared 100 years ago.

"These particular areas," he said, "have been selected after careful study by the chief historian, Dr. Harry Pfan, which shows conclusively that woods existed at those spots at the time of the battle. The study was based on official records, contemporary maps and on regimental histories and accounts."

MOSTLY WHITE OAK

The project is part of the work which over the last several years has included the removal of trees where no trees existed at the time of the battle, including portions of the Devil's Den and Wheatfield areas and other parts of the field, and the razing of the Masonheimer house.

White oak, pine oak, hickory, poplar, sycamore, and ash will be the type trees planted with white oak predominant.

The areas to be replanted include eight acres north of the McMillan Woods on W. Confederate Ave., four acres near the intersection of the Emmitsburg Rd. and W. Confederate Ave., three acres near the intersection of United States Ave. and Hancock Ave.

In addition, Superintendent Wing said, trees are being replanted in the National Cemetery to take the place of trees there that have died or have been destroyed by lightning.

EARLY CHURCH VIGIL CUSTOM RENEWED HERE

A custom of the early church, baptism at the Easter Vigil, was solemnized for the first time in the local church's history at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church Saturday night.

Miss Judy Trent, Chambersburg St., was received into the church by baptism with John Farrell and Susan Hess as her godparents. Rev. Fr. Joseph P. Kealy, pastor of the church, immediately preceding the baptism noted: "This is an extremely joyous time when one becomes part of the body of Christ."

Baptism at the Easter Vigil is an early custom of the church, Rev. Fr. John Wildeman, assistant pastor of the church, explained. At that time the catechumens received their instruction during Lent and were received into the church by baptism on the Vigil of Easter. Later, however, the custom was changed and persons are baptized throughout the year. The Easter Vigil service was restored about 1957. Saturday night marked the first time locally that a baptism was held in connection with the service.

Mississippi Is Churning Relentlessly Along Wide Path Through Five States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Churning flood waters slapped against dikes, made murky ponds of thousands of acres of farmland and relentlessly rolled through countless homes in five states today.

Workers sandbagged and kept an around-the-clock vigil at dikes along the Mississippi River from the Twin Cities in Minnesota to Cairo, Ill., as the high, icy water menaced levees.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said some of the rivers had crested and were receding.

The Mississippi began dropping in Hannibal, Mo., after coming to within 2 feet of the record 24.1 feet set in 1947. Late Sunday the river had fallen to 22.9 feet.

A broken levee near Quincy, Ill., flooded from 7,000 to 11,000 acres of farmland Saturday night. The break eased some of the pressure against other levees down river.

Attorney Richard A. Brown, 54, senior member of the Gettysburg law firm of Brown, Swope and MacPhail, and a former president of the Annie M. Warner Hospital, died this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the York Hospital where he had been a patient since Wednesday. Death was caused by a chronic heart condition.

He is survived by his widow, the former Marie Weise, whom he married September 1, 1937; a daughter, Mrs. Frank Rummolds, Berkeley, Calif., and a son, Richard A. Jr., a Senior at the University of Kentucky Law School. He resided at Gettysburg R. 2.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, the Adams County Bar Association, of which he was a past president; the Pennsylvania Bar Association, the American Bar Association and the International Bar Association. He was a member of the international and comparative law committees of the Pennsylvania Bar Association at the time of his death.

He was born in Pittsburgh December 28, 1910, the son of the late Brady and Anna M. Brown. He was graduated from Gettysburg College in 1933 and received his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1936. He was admitted to active law practice in January, 1937, in the office of the late J. Donald Swope, Baltimore St. He was also admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the U. S.

HOSPITAL IS GIVEN $820 BY HEART GROUP

Rev. Charles E. Held, executive director of the Adams County Heart Association, was conveyed on behalf of the association the gift of $820 for the purchase of a Viso-Cardiote and cart.

The instrument of the latest design is a portable cardiograph that can be taken to the patients' bedside and will be used in the pathology department in cardiac cases.

Donald Z. Wagner, comptroller of the hospital, in acknowledging the $820 contribution from the Heart Association, said:

"To provide our community with the best and to serve all who need care regardless of their financial status requires substantial sums in voluntary gifts."

RAISE $3,000
"Support such as your association has given helps tremendously as the hospital works to achieve these goals."

Rev. Held announced that the total of the 1965 Heart Fund drive has reached $3,000. He added that several annual contributors are still to be heard from and said he expects the final total will equal or exceed that of previous years.

Besides providing equipment for the hospital, the Heart Association has special beds and commodes on hand in all parts of the county for home use by cardiac patients and annually contributes to research grants that have so effectively improved the techniques in treating heart diseases.

Mississippi Is Churning Relentlessly Along Wide Path Through Five States

The Weather Bureau said the river will begin rising again, swelled by waters of flooded rivers in Minnesota.

The governors of Illinois and Missouri — Otto Kerner and Warren E. Hearnes — planned an aerial inspection of flooded regions today.

The broken levee sent hundreds of persons in search of shelter.

NEW SEAWALL

Residents of two East Moline, Ill., housing projects have moved out. Rock Island, Ill., was untouched behind a new seawall, but sandbagging and earth-moving operations continued in Moline, East Moline, Rock Island and Davenport, Iowa.

More than 300 National Guardsmen patrolled river points in western Illinois Sunday as the first of an expected 5,500 evacuees began leaving their homes. (Continued on Page 3)

Mental Patient, Home On Leave Kills Wife, 3 Daughters, Suicides

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP) — A mental patient home on leave killed his wife, three daughters and then himself while police had a telegraphed request to pick him up, a Veterans Administration spokesman said Sunday.

Tonawanda Police Chief James G. Oldenburg acknowledged receiving the telegram to pick up Thurber Cassidy, 37, on Friday. But, he said, his men did not act on it because it was not "in writing."

The bodies of Cassidy, his wife, Agnes, 36, and the girls, Barbara, 10, Deborah, 8, and Beverly, 4, were found Saturday night in the family home in this city near Buffalo. Scattered through the house were a bloodstained hatchet, hammer and plumber's wrench.

DEAD 12 HOURS

A medical examiner said the family had been dead for about 12 hours.

VA officials and Erie County Dist. Atty. Michael Dillon announced Sunday night they would investigate details of the telegraphed request and lack of police action.

Police and the medical examiner said Cassidy had struck at the girls after stabbing his wife. He then plunged a knife in himself, officials said.

Cassidy had been undergoing mental treatments since shortly after his discharge from the Navy 18 years ago, his mother, Mrs. Emerson Cassidy, told the Buffalo Courier Express Sunday. She said that, in recent months, her son had become "extremely religious" and that at times he purported to be a prophet.

"GOD TOLD ME"

A penciled note, that police said Cassidy had written, said: "Dear Mom and Dad, God told me to."

STEEL TALKS RESUME TODAY AFTER RECESS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negotiations in the basic steel industry resume today after a three-day recess with the federal government keeping more than a casual eye on the doings.

The United Steelworkers can strike May 1 if there is no settlement or contract extension.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, arrived here from Washington Sunday night and will be on the scene.

However, Simkin said, "This is not to be construed as a formal government intervention at this time, although that is a possibility."

SETTLEMENT "POSSIBLE"

Meanwhile, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Sunday in Washington on Radio International's "From the People" program he believes a settlement can be reached without a strike.

He said he is hopeful of an agreement despite the still unsettled fight for the union's presidency.

Incumbent David J. McDonald reportedly has been defeated by I. W. Abel, secretary-treasurer. Official results must be reported by May 1. If McDonald loses, he is expected to contest the outcome.

CRITICAL WEEK

This is a critical week in negotiations. If there is no settlement in sight the industry must start slowing shipments, banking furnaces and using up scrap in preparation for a shutdown.

Still on the bargaining table was an industry proposal that the union extend its strike deadline for 60 days to six months in exchange for contract improvements totaling about five cents an hour.

The union rejected the proposal Thursday as inadequate. But sources said the amount of money offered and not the terms of the extension was the main point of disagreement.

YANK AIRMEN BUILD CHAPEL BETWEEN RAIDS

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Besides carrying out the most intensive air war since Korea, U.S. airmen here are building a chapel and paying for it themselves.

The United States has poured millions of dollars into Da Nang Air Base, which has a key role in bombing raids on North Viet Nam and Communist-held sections of Laos. The base is jointly occupied with the Vietnamese air force.

The largest chunk of construction money went into such items as runway and maintenance facilities and equipment. Many of the airmen sleep in tents and the base commander lives in a trailer.

LACK FEDERAL FUNDS

The Marines on Da Nang Air Base have their own chapel and the Army Corps plans to build one soon. The Air Force says it has no money available.

"So we decided to raise the money ourselves and build our own," says Capt. Wayne L. Stork, a Protestant chaplain from Greencastle, Ind.

As airmen filed through the pay line recently, they donated $1,200 toward the $3,000 project. Stork says the rest of the money will be raised with further requests for donations and possibly bingo or casino parties where the house's percentage goes toward building the non-denominational chapel.

NOW USE THEATER

At present the base theater is used for chapel services, an arrangement Stork said is somewhat unsatisfactory.

"Besides movies, the theater is used for commander's call and every other large meeting here. We need some place where a man can go to pray and meditate privately any time he feels the need," Stork said.

Local materials and Air Force volunteers are being used to put up the 30-by-50-foot building. An engineer with an American contractor here pledged four weeks of work to help make sure the corners are square and the doors are in the proper places.

EARLY CHURCH

new fire. As the candle was carried into the darkened church three times the procession of priests and altar boys halted while the priest sang the Latin verse recalling that Christ is the light of the world. At the first halt a candle carried by the priest following the Paschal Candle was lit. At the next halt another candle in the procession was lit. At the third halt other candles, held by altar boys, were lit from the Paschal Candle and then were carried along the rows of pews to light the candles of parishioners there.

Those at the ends of the pews in turn lighted the candle of the persons beside them and so on until all of the candles held by the parishioners were ignited and the service continued for a time lit only by the candles.

Following the singing of the "Exultat" or "Let us Rejoice," the lessons, which start with the creation according to Genesis and continue with various prayers interspersed, through sections of the Old Testament history of God's relations with man until the arrival of Christ, were read, for the first time in English.

VOWS ARE RENEWED

Blessing of the baptismal water followed, at the conclusion of which the baptism was held, after which the entire congregation joined in a renewal of baptismal vows.

Recitation of the Litany of the Saints in English was also part of the service.

At the conclusion of the Vigil service a few minutes after midnight, the priest intoned the beginning of the "Gloria." Symbolizing the joy of the resurrection on Easter, the organ, which had been silent since Holy Thursday, burst into the music of the "Gloria to God" and the church bells rang to "announce the resurrection" while the choir joined in singing the "Gloria" that began the Midnight Mass.

About 500 attended. For the first time this year also, those who received communion at the Midnight Mass were permitted to receive communion again at a later Mass Sunday morning.

STOCKS MIXED

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market flirted with new highs early this afternoon in active trading.

An irregular rise pushed popular averages above the record closing highs established last week, but the rise was hesitant and there were many losers.

Selective strength among motors, cigarette stocks, oils, mail order - retailers and coppers helped boost the market indicators.

The business-economic news background was regarded as highly encouraging.

mountain stone, quarried at the site. From its vantage point on St. Mary's Mount it is visible for miles.

The memorial, which stands on the site of the Church of St. Mary, erected in 1805 by Rev. Fr. John Dubois, will be dedicated to the "glory of God and His Blessed Mother." This theme is engraved on the bronze plaque which is found at the base of the tower.

A second plaque dedicating the 14 carillon bells to distinguished religious and lay leaders has been placed within the tower. The bells were cast in Aarle-Rixtel, Holland, by Petit and Frisken, Ltd. The range in diameter from 16 to 40 inches, weighing 99 to 1,408 pounds; each with a solenoid striker. Other features of the carillon are a program clock for automatic ringing of the chimes, a Westminster chime and hour strike, an automatic roll player and a keyboard console.

The statue and tower are lighted each day from dusk until dawn by a special lighting system developed by the Sylvania Electric Corp., utilizing methods incorporated in the lighting of the Empire State Building in New York City.

Adjacent to the Campanile is the oldest grotto replica of the shrine at Lourdes, France, in this country. Since it was designated as a national shrine by the Holy See in 1968, many thousands of pilgrims, privately or in organized groups, have visited the site. The shrine is operated under the supervision of Rev. Fr. Hugh J. Phillips, National Shrine Grotto director and college chaplain.

Cardinal Shehan, who earlier in the day will dedicate the St. Joseph Provincial House at Emmitsburg, will be accompanied by many members of the Catholic hierarchy as well as distinguished national, state and local government officials and guests.

In Minnesota, the Mississippi and St. Croix rivers in St. Paul and Stillwater leveled off after the communities had battled the overflow for a week.

REACHES CREST

Joseph Strub, river expert for the Weather Bureau, said the 26-foot level of the Mississippi recorded late Friday in St. Paul appears to have been the crest. The river had backed off to 25.40 feet Sunday.

Downstream, Wabasha, a community of 2,500, is surrounded by water. About one-third of the population has been evacuated.

Winona, a city of 25,000, is braced behind nine miles of dikes 25 feet high awaiting a record 21.5-foot crest Tuesday. If the dikes burst, 80 per cent of the city will be under water.

Gov. Karl Rolvaag's office estimated damage at $40 million and the Red Cross said 21,000 individuals were homeless in Minnesota.

ROOFS ABOVE WATER

In Chaska, only the roofs of some of the 350 waterlogged houses were above the water.

In Wisconsin, Gov. Warren P. Knowles said he was prepared to ask President Johnson for federal disaster aid.

La Crosse, a city of 47,000, is cut in half by flood water.

In Iowa, Dubuque expected a record crest of 24 to 25 feet on the Mississippi by Friday.

Construction was pushed on a mile-long dike in Clinton, where flood waters could inundate 150 blocks.

Last year 4,278,068 travelers crossed the North Atlantic.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Bright Skies Lee Surrounded and his whole army! The magnificent campaign of General Grant was closed on Sunday last with the surrender of Gen. Lee and all that remained of the Rebel Army of Northern Virginia. An official despatch from Gen.
Grant to the Secretary of War announces that Gen. Lee on the 5th (Sunday) surrendered his whole Army on the terms proposed by General Grant — and officers were appointed to carry the stipulation into effect. Gen.
Lee and all his officers and men, rolls of whom are to be made, surrender themselves prisoners of war and give their parole not to take up arms against the Government of the United States until properly exchanged, and are allowed to return to their homes, not to be disturbed by the United States authority so long as they observe their parole and the laws in force where they may reside.
All the arms, all the artillery and public property to be packed and stacked, and turned over to the officers appointed by Gen. Grant to receive them.
The side arms of the officers and their private baggage are not embraced. This glorious event is the precursor of Peace and a triumph of our principles, which will tell upon the future of this Great Nation. We look upon the War as now, in fact, ended, so far as destruction of life is concerned; and we have not a doubt that the whole Rebel South will lay down their arms at once and yield to the majesty of our glorious, well tried, and now really triumphant Government.

Gen. Butler on Friday last resigned his commission as Major General in the Army and has returned to the practice of the law. Four years ago he abruptly stopped the trial of a case in which he was employed as counsel and with energy devoted himself to the work of raising troops for the defence of Washington. He will return to Boston in a few days and will resume the trial of the case which he left unfinished four years ago.

President Lincoln made a speech last Tuesday night in front of his mansion, to a very large and enthusiastic assemblage. His remarks were confined to the reconstruction of the Union, giving some of his views on the subject. It will require a little time and the proper measures to be adopted, before the matter can permanently be arranged. The President is much improved in health by his visit to the front.

It is estimated that the Rebel forces surrendered to General Grant on Sunday by Lee commanded between twenty and twenty-five thousand men. The total number of general officers who have become prisoners to General Grant since the 5th inst. is 32, including General Lee himself.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
The Fireman's Ball in the rink on Friday night was a great success. Eighteen sets were on the floor at one time; at least five hundred people, including onlookers, were in attendance.

About twenty members of the local camp Sons of Veterans were present at the organization of the new camp at Fairfield on Tuesday evening last.
Capt. Charles Holtzworth mustered in the new members.

Today's Talk

INTERFERENCE

The policeman does a good job when he interferes with the one who defies the law, or who acts against the best interests of society. The football player becomes a hero when he interferes with a man about to make a touchdown, and prevents him from doing so. (Hero to his side!)

There is another kind of interference, however, with which we are all acquainted — the interference of those in the affairs of others. Why should we be so ready to give advice to others that we may never have applied to ourselves? Incentive is one of the greatest of possessions. With it failure is shoved aside and the will to conquer is doubly increased.
Personality is something that has to be self-developed — not borrowed or loaned by someone else.

Even though the other fellow may be wrong, so long as he thinks he knows, let him alone.
He will learn more by his self-mistakes than all the interference from others could accomplish. Putting a man on his mettle is what always counts most in self development.

In a little book by William James, called "What Makes a Life Significant," he said: "The first thing to learn in intercourse with others in noninterference with their own peculiar ways of being happy, provided those ways do not assume to interfere by violence with ours.
No one has insight into all the ideals. No one should presume to judge them offhand."

There are too many don't's handed out in life. Too many to the child. Too many to us all!
We should glory in the fact that not a single one of us is a duplicate of another. Each is an "unique," as Emerson so well said. The development of each personality is a thing apart. It is what makes so many human beings stand out, significantly distinguished. All human beings grow and develop best when let alone, with no interference.

None of us sees or acts in exactly the same manner. The glory of the morning sunrise, or the plaintive song of the nightingale, is individual to us all. Without interference it is possible for any one of us to "mount as eagles!"

justing Oneself"

BIRDMAN
In a pleasant land a gentle man
With beard of gray and cheeks of tan
Waits for the birds from spring
to fall
And calls them his neighbors, one and all.

"Though I live alone," he said to me,
"Always I've glorious company."

"I've a guest book here which I keep to show
The dates when my visitors come and go.

The first to land on my window sill
I feed 'til he tells me he's had his fill.

Alone? Not I! When I'm having tea
The sweetest of song birds sing for me.

"I have prize fights, too, and a
ringside seat
When two jealous rivals chance
to meet,
Both wooing the self-same lady fair,

The feathers start filling the springtime air.
Alone? Not I! 'Til the long day ends
I've the comradeship of a thousand friends."

RUDY MAY NEAR TO EQUALLING 73-YEAR MARK FOR ANGELS

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rudy May, who bounced around between seasons more than one of Dean Chance's billiard balls, has lost his opportunity to equal a 73-year-old record because of one well-placed shot.

May, Los Angeles Angel left-hander, allowed Detroit only one hit in nine innings Sunday in his first major league pitching appearance.

The 20-year-old rookie, however, wasn't around for the finish as the Tigers beat the Angels 4-1 in 13 innings.

Bob Lee replaced the tiring May at the start of the 10th.

SPOILED NO HITTER

Charlie Jones of Cincinnati is the only pitcher ever to hurl a no-hitter in his first appearance in the majors, having accomplished the feat in a 7-1 victory over Pittsburgh Oct. 15, 1892.

May was on his way toward becoming the first modern Charlie Jones when he ran into Jake Wood with one out in the eighth inning. Wood, batting for rookie Ray Oyler, lined a shot to center field.

Angel center-fielder Jose Cardenal dived for the ball, but it fell several feet in front of him and bounced into left-center for a double. On the next play, pinch-hitter George Thomas hit a grounder through second baseman Bobby Knoop's legs for an error and the tying run.

WASNT READY

The Angels were the third team in less than two months to own May. The Chicago White Sox sent him to Philadelphia last Oct. 15, and the Phillies, in turn, threw him into the Dec. 4 trade that broke up the pool-playing combination of Chance and Bo Belinsky.

May, incidentally, received his first start a day early when Chance developed a blister on his pitching hand.

"I was really worried about starting," May said after the game, "because I didn't really think I was ready. I hadn't pitched anything but batting practice in the past two weeks. I sort of surprised myself out there."

GO 13 INNINGS

The Tigers broke up the Angel game with three runs in the 13th. Willie Horton racing home with the tie-breaker on catcher Bob Rodgers' passed ball.

Mickey Mantle slammed a two-run homer and a double in the Yankees' victory but suffered a bruised right knee sliding into second base in the seventh. The injury, however, was not reported as serious. Jim Gentile socked a three-run homer for Kansas City.

Tony Conigliaro and Bob Tillman each drove in three runs for Boston. Conigliaro finished with four hits, including a two-run homer. Boog Powell connected with two on for Baltimore.

TWO RUN HOMER

Minnesota defeated Cleveland behind Jimmie Hall's two-run homer in the fourth and clutch relief pitching by Dave Boswell and Al Worthington. Boswell pitched out of trouble in the fourth and Worthington in the seventh.

Two errors by Pete Ward led to unearned Washington runs in the fifth and sixth innings of the second game while Pete Richert stopped the White Sox on seven hits in eight innings. In the opener, Danny Cater contributed three singles and a double to Gary Peters' second triumph.

CELTICS ROMP TO FIRST WIN OVER LAKERS

By BOB HOOBING

Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — "K.C. Jones played a whale of a game. They talk about Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain as the great ones, but he belongs in that class."

The tribute to his tormentor was paid by Los Angeles scoring ace Jerry West after Boston romped to a record 142-110 victory over the Lakers Sunday in the opener of the National Basketball Association playoff finals.

The best-of-7 series continues tonight at Boston Garden before the teams head for Los Angeles.

HURT BY INJURY

Neither coach was satisfied with the first game. The Lakers, already operating minus Elgin Baylor and with Dick Barnett hurting, apparently have lost Jim King for game No. 2 due to an ankle injury.

"Now we're one more man short," said Laker Coach Fred Schaus.

Boston's Red Auerbach gave his players tongue-lashing lectures on the dangers of overconfidence both before and after the victory.

K.C. Jones was the one positive factor hailed on all sides.

The Boston playmaker-succesor to Bob Cousy, rated the best defensive backcourt man anywhere, was the chief reason West got only six points in the first half as the Celtics took a 64-49 bulge. West, who averaged 46.3 points in the Western Division playoffs, wound up with 26.

K.C. Jones got 11 of his 17 points, four of his assists, three steals, an interception and permitted West only two points in the first quarter as Boston took command 32-23.

"I've always had the highest regard for K.C.," said Schaus. "Next to Russell, I've always felt he is the most valuable player for Boston. Like Russell, nobody can replace him."

Sam Jones scored 25 points and John Havlicek 22 for Boston.

Once again the Hawks have fallen behind. They lost the opener of their best-of-7 championship series to Montreal Saturday night.

CONTINUE TUESDAY

"They did an excellent job and played well," said Reay even though the Hawks were without the services of Pierre Pilote and Kenny Wharram, both of whom were injured in the final game against Detroit.

"If we continue to play this well, we'll win the series," he said.

The series continues in Montreal Tuesday night and then the scene shifts to Chicago for games Thursday and Sunday nights.

KOUFAX ARM BEATS PHILS 6-2 SUNDAY

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sandy Koufax says that if his arthritic left elbow doesn't stiffen in the next day or so there is nothing wrong with him that a little work won't cure.

The 29-year-old Los Angeles Dodgers lefty put baseball's most famous arm to the test Sunday against Philadelphia. He won 6-2, but wasn't the overpowering, sharp control pitcher who won a total of 44 games the past two seasons.

Koufax was wild — at least for Koufax. He walked five and consistently ran deep in the ball and strike count. He struggled through the late innings and twice brought Dodger Manager Walter Alton out for conference.

"I pitched about as I expected," he said.

NO PAIN, NO HITCH

"I was wild, but I have pitched only three innings since March 30," he said. "I had no pain, no hitch in my arm. I'm tired and glad to get that one over."

Will he be able to pitch every four days in the Dodgers' regular rotation?

Young Administrative Aides Use All Known Tools To Sell Scranton Ideas To Public

By JACK LYNCH
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG (AP)—Probably no other administration in Pennsylvania history has gotten its ideas across to the general public as well as the Scranton Administration.

Gov. Scranton's imaginative young aides have utilized virtually every method known to the advertising and public relations trades to sell their programs and, in some cases, to undercut the opposition.

Many highly placed Democrats, while disagreeing with the governor's policies, have grudgingly admitted that his communications techniques are highly effective. For public consumption, they accuse the governor of shallowness and Madison Avenue hucksterism.

100,000 PENNSYLVANIANS

Some of the better known devices used by the governor's team have been the "Committee of 100,000 Pennsylvanians for Economic Growth" and television programs and announcements of varying length.

The governor himself has made or plans more special messages on a greater variety of topics than any of his predecessors.

Persons within and close to the administration also were behind massive advertising campaigns to elect Republican legislators (only partially successful) and to elicit public support for passage last year of resions of the unemployment compensation law (almost completely successful).

NEWS CONFERENCES

The governor's news conferences, held by predecessors in the chief executive's own office, were first moved by Scranton to the outer reception room and finally to an elaborately equipped sound studio to better utilize radio and television coverage.

Early in the administration, radio and television stations were urged to call in any questions they might have. These were directed to press secretary Jack L. Conmy who posed them to the governor during special sessions in the state's sound studio. The taped answers were telephoned to the interested stations.

ADD DIAL MESSAGE

Now a new wrinkle has been added by the administration. It's the "dial-a-message" technique used by many organizations to get their ideas across.

Conmy, who instituted the innovation, said it is primarily for radio stations.

The governor and other key members of his cabinet tape record messages on timely topics. The tape, anywhere from 25 seconds to a minute long, plays automatically when a special Capitol telephone number is dialed.

Conmy said the 140 radio and television stations in the com-

Conmy's memo called the system a "hot line to the governor's office," but he said the messages are nonpolitical "because, obviously, if they were political they would defeat their own purpose."

UNAVOIDABLE POLITICS

Despite Conmy's disavowal of political intent, a certain amount of politics is involved, perhaps unavoidably.

For example, one of the governor's messages intimated that the Democratic majority in the House, which has been holding up some administration programs, may be ready to move after the Easter recess as a result of a meeting he had last week with Democratic leaders.

Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer recorded a message which all but accused the Democrats of delaying action on the governor's request for a $10,000 salary increase to attract a new superintendent of public instruction.

The "hot line" series began April 5 and in a spot check of 30 stations during the past week Conmy said, more than half thought the idea a good one and made regular use of it. One rejected it flatly as not news worthy.

But with many stations making regular use of the tapes, the Scranton Administration undoubtedly is reaching more people more frequently than any other in state history.

LIFE OF TOWN IS HINGED ON SANDBAG WALL

By RICHARD RAINBOLT

WINONA, Minn. (AP) — This southeastern Minnesota community of 25,000 is gambling its life on a huge wall of sandbags and earth nine miles long as it awaits record floodwaters of the onrushing Mississippi River.

The anticipated all-out assault is now expected about Tuesday when a record crest of 21.5 feet is forecast. The level Friday night was 19.5 feet, a foot and a half over the 1952 record of 17.91.

The dikes were built in a little over a week and reach to a height of 25 feet. They contain a million sandbags and an untold amount of earth.

MODEL FOR OTHERS

State Civil Defense Director Roy Aune said, "This is a model for cities across the country. You just don't build eight to ten miles of dikes 25 feet high at the snap of a finger."

As the flood waters advanced across Minnesota last week, Winona officials hired contractors to build the wall. College and high school students who volunteered their help, were paid $1.50 an hour.

Sandbags alone have cost Winona $135,000. Workers are adding another 300,000 to the million already in place.

City officials estimate the defenses have cost in excess of $1 million so far. Mayor Rudy Ellings said they will save several times their cost in property damage if the dikes hold.

Contractors have thrown more than 300 trucks and bulldozers into the work. The number of sandbaggers is upward of 1,500. Among them are 85 Christian Brothers, students at Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary in Winona.

Workers are widening the dikes. The city maintains an around-the-clock vigil to watch for weak spots. Portable lighting systems play beams on the dikes throughout the night. Volunteers patrol the walls.

A communications system of amateur radio operators dispatch men and equipment to vital points as the needs arise.

Civil Defense and Coast Guard rescue teams are in the city in case the dikes fail. Dormitories at three colleges would be used to house evacuees.

Mayor Ellings, touring the city this week, said at a residential area in the heart of the city: "Right here the water will be eight feet deep if the dikes don't hold."

Winona, 90 miles southeast of Minneapolis, recently received funds for a million-dollar flood control program. Construction was to have started immediately but the city has been too busy fighting floods.

Corrective exercise and diet help to regulate some problems. But there is no way to arrest bosom development and really you would not wish to. In the natural course of events, you will grow taller and the slim areas will fill out. Then the bosom proportions will appear normal. (Ideally, bosom and hip measurements are the same, or nearly so.)

Meanwhile you must not make the mistake of trying to conceal the problem by slouching or wearing tight bras. Slouching only creates more problems — round shoulders and awkward posture. Tight bras are injurious to health and delicate breast tissues.

For the slimming effect, wear clothes with deep armholes, plenty of ease across the chest and vertical detailing — such as centered buttons. You will be amazed at the improvement in your appearance.

TROUT SEASON OFF TO GOOD START IN '65

HARRISBURG (AP) — The 1965 trout season is off to a good start.

According to the state Fish Commission, some 200,000 anglers fished Pennsylvania streams, lakes and rivers on opening day Saturday.

Their luck was pretty good, too. According to most reports the fishermen made quite an inroad in the 1,858,700 hatchery-raised fish deposited in 4,819 miles of state water.

Temperatures were quite chilly when the season opened at 5 a.m. but the mercury began climbing as the day wore on. It ranged from the 20s in the northern tier counties to the mid-60s in central Pennsylvania.

(southeast), said. "This was the worst year I can remember for early fishing (before 8 a.m.) violations."

The Fish Commission said the biggest concentration of fishermen was in southeastern and northeastern Pennsylvania.

Rain and some snow held down the number of anglers in Erie County. But the turnout was brisk a little farther south in Crawford, Venango and Forest Counties.

Corbin said scattered shad was being taken in the lower sections of the Delaware River. Good fishing also was reported in central Pennsylvania streams including Yellow Breeches Creek.

Lincoln's Assassination As Reported In The Adams Sentinel

Murderous Assault On Mr. Lincoln While Attending Play In Ford's Theater

MURDER OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, AND MURDEROUS ASSAULT ON SECRETARY SEWARD AND FAMILY.

Assassination Shocks Nation

Washington, Apr. 14 President Lincoln and his wife, together with other friends, this evening visited Ford's Theater for the purpose of witnessing the performance of "The American Cousin." It was announced in the papers that General Grant would also be present but that gentleman instead took the late train of cars for New Jersey. The theater was densely crowded and everybody seemed delighted with the scene before them.

During the third act, and while there was a temporary pause for one of the actors to enter, the sharp report of a pistol was heard, which merely attracted attention, but suggested nothing serious until a man rushed to the front of the President's box waving a long dagger in his right hand and exclaimed "Sic Semper Tyrannis" and immediately leaped to the stage beneath and ran across to the opposite side, thus making his escape, amid the bewilderment of the audience, from the rear of the theater, and mounting a horse, fled.

PRESIDENT IS SHOT

The screams of Mrs. Lincoln first disclosed the fact to the audience that the President had been shot — then all present rose to their feet, rushing toward the stage, many exclaiming "Hang him! Hang him!" The excitement was one of the wildest possible description and of course there was an abrupt termination of the theatrical performance.

There was a rush towards the Presidential box, when cries were heard: "Stand back. Give him air. Has any one stimulants?" On a hasty examination it was found that the President had been shot through the head, above and back of the temple bone and that some of the brain was oozing out. He was removed to a private house opposite the theater and the Surgeon General of the army and other surgeons were sent for to attend to his condition.

PISTOL IS FOUND

On an examination of the private box, blood was discovered on the back of the cushioned rocking chair on which the President had been sitting; also, on the partition and on the floor. A common single barreled pocket pistol was found on the carpet. A military guard was placed in front of the private residence to which the President had been removed. An immense crowd gathered in front of it, all deeply anxious to learn the condition of the President. It had been previously announced that the wound was mortal, but all hoped otherwise. The shock to the community was terrible.

At midnight the Cabinet, with Messrs. Sumner, Colfax and Farnsworth, Judge Carter, Governor Oglesby, General Meigs, Colonel Hay and a few personal friends with Surgeon General Haines and his medical associates were around his bedside. The President is in a dying condition at midnight. The Surgeons were exhausting every possible effort of medical skill but all hope was gone. The parting of his family with the dying President is too sad for description.

Late Reports

Our latest dispatches from Washington are that the President died on Saturday morning at a few minutes after 7 o'clock. That Vice President Johnson was inaugurated as President on the forenoon of that day.

That a meeting of the old Cabinet was held. That W. Hunter, Esq., Chief Clerk of the State Department, was appointed Secretary of State during the disability of Secretary Seward and his son, F. W. Seward, the assistant secretary.

That President Johnson retains in office the present Cabinet.

That the funeral of President Lincoln will take place at noon tomorrow (Wednesday).

That his remains will be removed to Springfield, Illinois.

That Secretary Seward is improving and may survive his wounds.

That his son, the Assistant Secretary, is still in a critical condition.

That the evidence is very strong that J. W. Booth was the murderer of the President, and a desperado, of Prince George's county, Md., named John Surratt, the man who made the attack on Mr. Seward.

They are known, and from the activity of the authorities will soon be caught, and made to pay the penalty of their fiendish acts.

We give in another column all the particulars which reached us, up to the hour of going to press, of the terrible tragedy which has startled the Nation — the murder of President Lincoln, and the attempted assassination of Secretary Seward and his sons on Friday night last.

Although several days have now passed since the first shock occasioned by its sudden announcement, we have not yet been able to recover sufficient composure to contemplate it with the calmness necessary to measure its significance, or speculate upon probable consequences. In the presence of a crime so essentially Satanic and Heaven-daring — a calamity so overwhelming and so appalling — the heart sinks crushed and bleeding.

NATION SHOCKED

On Friday last, the loyal hearts of the American People beat high with patriotic exultation over the utter discomfiture of the treasonable conspiracy which, for four years, had deluged the land with blood, and threatened the destruction of the Republic. The capture of Richmond and the surrender of the army which had so long defended that citadel of treason, and given strength and power to the Rebellion — the flight of Davis, and his associates in the work of Treason — the assured triumph of the Nation, and the prospects of immediate Peace — had electrified the popular heart.

The Republic, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, was radiant with the smiles of Victory and shining Peace. In every city and village and hamlet of the loyal North, the banner of the Republic was thrown proudly to the breeze, while the deep-mouthed cannon thundered forth the glorious assurance, that the Republic was saved.

But all at once — with the suddenness of the electric flash, which announced the dread event — the voice of joy is hushed, mourners go about the streets, and the heart of the nation lies crushed beneath a calamity so utterly overwhelming as to blanch every cheek and make the stoutest heart to quail with dread.

Editorial

ABRAHAM LINCOLN — the Chief Executive of the United States — the man who, in the Providence of God, led the nation in its few years of pilgrimage through blood and fire and desolation — to whose genius and virtues, sagacity and fearless integrity, more than all others, the Nation felt indebted for its deliverance from Treason and Danger — is suddenly stricken down in the Capital of the Republic by the hand of an assassin!

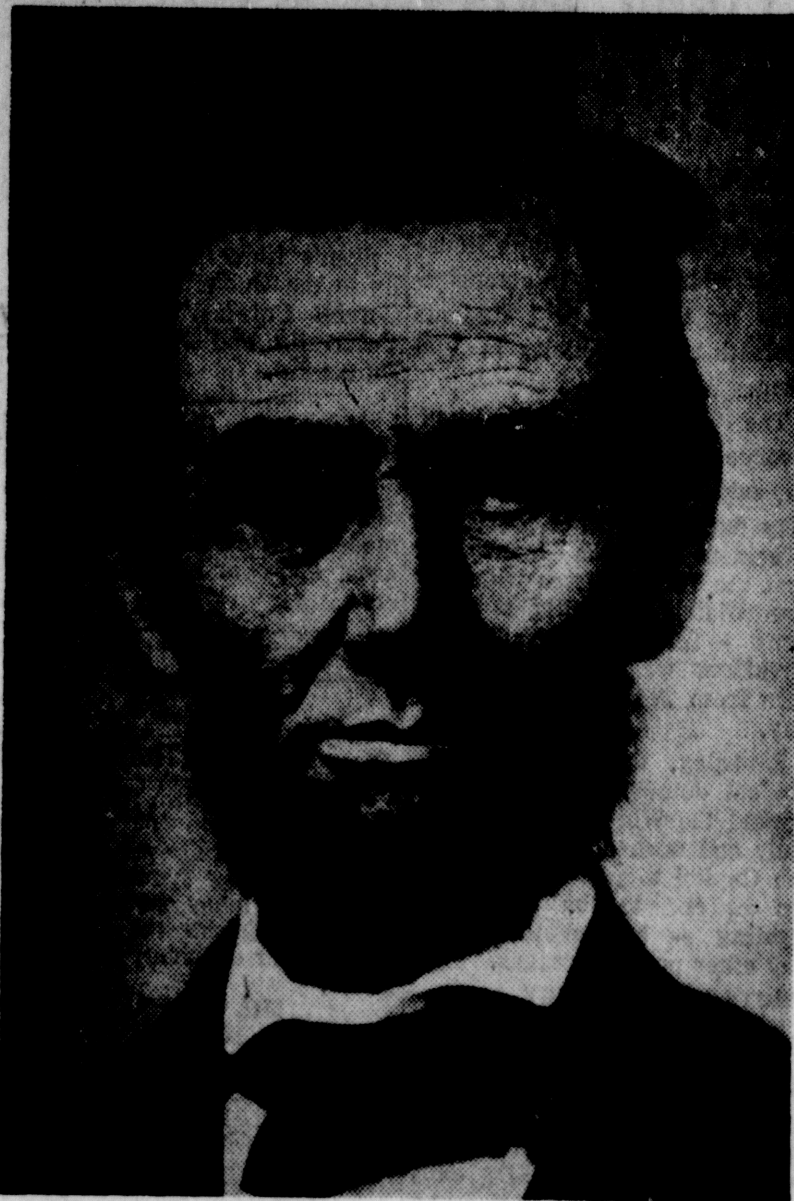

Treason, not satisfied with the terrible sacrifices it had demanded during the four years of its horrid rule, would needs have a victim more costly than any that had preceded, and finds it in the person of the idol Chief Magistrate of the Republic.

As we have already remarked, in the presence of a crime so astounding, a calamity so overwhelming, we have no heart to attempt either the language of eulogy or to speculate on the possible consequences of this terrible tragedy. "It still lives — and will live," to use the words of one of our Divines on last Sabbath.

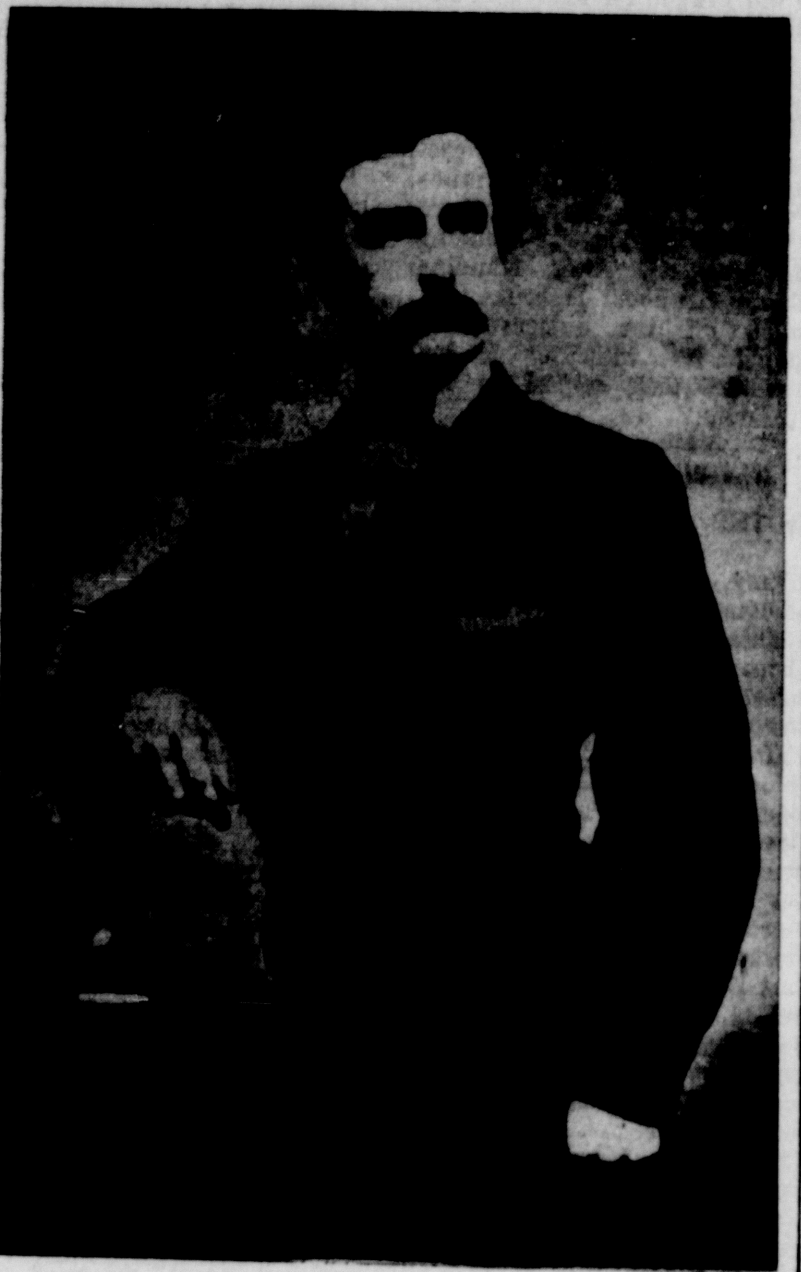

HAND OF GOD

The hand of God has been with the Nation in this terrible struggle. He has thus far conducted us safely over the errors of people and rulers and He will not now abandon us. Why He has permitted this terrible blow to fall upon the Nation in the hour of its triumph, no mortal can divine. "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord." That there is some wise purpose concealed in it all, we are bound to believe, and can only abide the developments of his Providence.

It may be that ABRAHAM LINCOLN, having accomplished the high mission entrusted to him, is now withdrawn from the scene which immortalized him, with his peerless fame untarnished, to take rank with Earth's greatest men — while the work of reconstructing the Nation, and closing up the Rebellion is reserved for other hands. We know not God's purpose. It is, however, as if he had said to the Nation, in this mysterious Providence — "Be still, and know that I am God!" . . . The Adams Sentinel.

Mr. Lincoln's Remains Taken To Illinois

Funeral Of The President: The funeral of the late President took place in Washington on Wednesday last. The ceremonies were the most mournful and impressive character. There never were higher honors paid to the dead there than on this occasion. The procession was an hour and a half in passing a given point. Probably 15,000 persons were in it. The remains left Washington on Friday morning by a special train and would reach Springfield by Wednesday of next week. The route was through Baltimore, Harrisburg, Philadelphia, New York, Buffalo, Cleveland, Columbus, Indianapolis and Chicago. The highest honors were paid all along the route so far as heard from. The whole country is in mourning for the lamented dead. It estimated that 200,000 people visited the remains of the President at Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

Booth, the assassin, is still at large though the whole country is alive to arrest him. He is said to have been seen in front of the theater just previous to the assassination with a companion, by a Union soldier. They were waiting for the President to come out to his carriage at the end of the second act. As he did not come, Booth re-entered the theater and the deed was speedily consummated.

Should any accident happen that Johnson should be unable to fulfill the duties of his high office his successor, until a new election could be held, would be Lafayette S. Foster, of Connecticut, the President pro tem of the Senate.

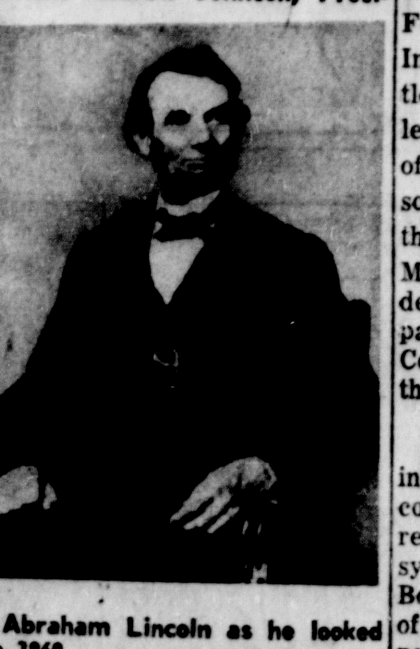

Gen. Sheridan received information of the assassination of the President on the 17th and concluded his negotiations with the Rebels on the 18th. This fact increases the general surprise and mortification felt as to the extent of his concessions.

Ford's Theater where Lincoln was shot while seated in a theater box attending a play.

In obedience to a call of Burgess E. G. McCreary, Esq., a public meeting was held in the Court House on Saturday afternoon last to give public expression of our sorrow in view of the recent National Calamity with which we have been visited in the assassination of our President, Abraham Lincoln. Hon. Edw. McPherson paid a deserved tribute to the memory of the deceased and closed by offering resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

Lincoln's Assassination

The Gettysburg Times today recalls the assassination and death of President Abraham Lincoln through The Adams Sentinel files of 100 years ago.

The accompanying articles of April, 1865, describe the shock to the nation and the county of the "murderous assault" on the life of President Lincoln and his death one day later in the modest bedroom of the Peterson home across the street from the Ford Theater; the immediate inauguration of Vice-president Johnson to be Chief of State, and the many cabinet meetings of the new administration.

The old Sentinel files also served as grim reminders of the attempted assassination of Secretary of War Seward, in his sickbed, the same evening.

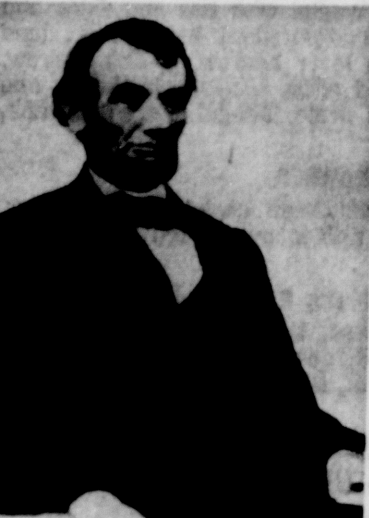

The accompanying illustrations are from the files of The Times.

DEATH OF THE PRESIDENT

After the mortal wound of the President, he remained insensible until his death, which occurred on Saturday morning at 7 o'clock. A whole nation is in deep mourning for the Noble, pure and venerated President; and never, we suppose, has there been such an electric thrill through the length and breadth of this great land.

He goes down to the tomb in the height of temporal glory and will have a name high on the list of the great and virtuous and noble men of this world, who have figured in the annals of history. Few men in public life have a purer record than the upright, honest ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

His death by a fiendish assassin adds to the horror of the awful event, revengeful feelings of those daring rebels who have been in armed hostility and have now employed a devil incarnate to consummate their infernal schemes. The very fact that the daring murderer leaped on the stage and flourishing his dagger most infamously perverted the motto of the coat of arms of Virginia in uttering it there (sic semper tyrannis) (thus be it always to tyrants) shows that he was a bitter and revengeful Southerner.

President Lincoln was never a tyrant, but was a kind tender hearted man and his own friends have ever said that if he erred at all it was on the side of leniency.

Stranger Forces Way Into Ailing Secretary Seward's Home; Stabs Him 3 Times

When the excitement at the theater was at its height, reports were circulated that Secretary Seward had also been assassinated. On reaching this gentleman's residence a Seward's house, took place at about the same hour (10 o'clock) thus showing a preconcerted plan to assassinate those gentlemen.

Some evidences of the guilt of the party who attacked the President are in possession of the police.

Vice President Johnson is in the city and his hotel quarters are guarded by troops. An immense crowd was gathered in front of the President's house and a strong guard also stationed there — many persons evidently supposing that he would be brought to his home.

CITY IS AROUSED The entire city tonight presents a scene of wild excitement accompanied by violent expressions of indignation and the profoundest sorrow. Many shed tears.

The military authorities have despatched mounted patrols in every direction in order, if possible, to arrest the assassin; while the metropolitan police are alike vigilant for the same purpose. The assassin then rushed down stairs, mounted his horse at the door and rode off before an alarm could be sounded, and in the same manner as the assassin of the President. It is believed the injuries of the Secretary are not fatal nor those of the others, although both the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary are very seriously injured.

FORCES ENTRANCE

The man pushed the servant aside and walked quickly towards the Secretary's room and was there met by Mr. Frederick W. Seward, of whom he demanded to see the Secretary, making the same representation which he did to the servant. What further passed in the way of colloquy is not known but the man struck him on the head with a billy, severely injuring the skull and felling him almost senseless.

The assassin then rushed into the chamber and attacked Major Seward, paymaster in the United States army, and Mr. Ivansell, a messenger of the State Department, and two male nurses, disabling them all.

STABBED 3 TIMES

He then rushed upon the Secretary, who was lying in bed, exhibiting of course intense anxiety and solicitude.

Armored Trucks Transport Priceless American Papers To World's Fair Pavilion

NEW YORK (AP) — Under massive and secret guard, copies of precious national documents including the Bill of Rights have been transferred from Washington to the Federal Pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

Hanging of the documents in the Hall of Presidents started Friday night. The display will be ready for the fair's reopening for its second and final season Wednesday.

The priceless collection was moved in armored trucks to the fair late Friday from the main vault of a branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank in Rockefeller Center.

POLICE ESCORT
Holy Week tourists and other visitors who crowded Rockefeller Plaza had no inkling of what was going on as the trucks pulled away behind a police escort.

A U.S. Marine detachment and special fair guards were waiting at the fair grounds in Queens. They will keep vigil over the documents while they are on display.

Among them are copies of the Emancipation Proclamation, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, the late President John F. Kennedy's first inaugural address, George Washington's inaugural and farewell addresses and President Franklin D. Roosevelt's Four Freedoms speech. The collection also includes swords, books, maps, paintings and engravings left behind by a dozen presidents.

When the collection was ready for shipment to New York in late March, unprecedented security precautions were deemed even more imperative because of the recent disclosure of an alleged plot to blow up the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and the Liberty Bell.

At 8 a.m. on March 29, armored trucks of the Treasury Department arrived at the Library of Congress and the National Archives exhibition hall in Washington. Treasury agents and special guards were on duty.

The trucks moved the collection to a rear gate of Union Station in Washington where it was placed on a Pennsylvania Railroad train for New York.

Trucks, which had waited at Pennsylvania Station here, carried the treasure under heavy guard through mid-Manhattan traffic to the bank branch.

A special frame was needed for each piece of the collection for exhibit at the fair. A few pieces were moved secretly under guard each day to a downtown framing company. After being fitted into pre-made frames, they were returned to the bank vault each night.

Some of the articles, however, were considered too valuable to be transported back and forth and the work was done inside the vault.

WANTS U.S. TO RETAIN BASES IN PHILIPPINES

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

MANILA (AP) — President Diosdado Macapagal declared today the United States should keep its military bases in the Philippines and warned that withdrawal would "play into the hands of the Communists."

"As everybody knows, the Communists have been advocating, in and outside the United Nations, the elimination of American bases scattered all over the globe," Macapagal told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview.

"It is unfortunate that some opposition leaders have advocated such a step, but this does not reflect popular opinion or the official view of the Philippine government."

SOME ASK RECALL

Recent incidents involving American bases here have touched off demands for removal of the military installations and the recall of U.S. Ambassador William McCormick Blair Jr.

U.S. guards killed two Filipinos on the bases last winter, prompting protest rallies and attacks against the United States in the Philippine press.

A World War II Japanese mortar shell was thrown into the American schoolyard at Clark Base while 750 children were inside. Blair set off a furor with a statement that two Filipinos had tried unsuccessfully to bomb the school.

Shooting incidents involving Filipinos led in 1956 to negotiations to revise the U.S.-Philippine military bases agreement. The negotiations have never been completed, but Macapagal said discussions are still going on.

"There are no irritants and misunderstandings between us that could not be resolved with satisfaction to both sides," the president said.

"The current talks to revise the military bases agreement are intended to promote this end."

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Six Navy and Marine Corps fliers come out of a space capsule today, where they have lived for 34 days, wearing full pressure suits, under varied climatic and pressure conditions and, for a time, at a simulated altitude of nearly six miles (27,000 feet).

The six were selected from a pool of prospective future astronauts to take part in a test to study the physiological and psychological effects of a space-craft atmosphere.

Two other fliers lived under similar conditions during the same period, but breathed ordinary air and lived in a small wooden room adjacent to the space chamber here at the Naval Air Engineering Center.

The fliers are:

YOUNG PEOPLE EXTEND RALLY AGAINST WAR

WASHINGTON (AP) — A small band of young people continued to picket the White House today after weekend demonstrations by thousands of students protesting U.S. policies in Viet Nam.

The group's spokesman, George Woywood of Indianapolis, said the young people would stay until they could present to President Johnson their plea that the United States withdraw immediately — without conditions — from Viet Nam. The President was expected to return from Texas today or Tuesday.

Saturday, upwards of 15,000 student demonstrators marched around the White House, held a rally and walked up the Mall to the Capitol to petition Congress for an end to the Viet Nam fighting — by negotiations or any other possible means.

PROTECT U.S. POLICY

The sponsors of the rally, a group called Students for a Democratic Society, said it marked the start of a national protest movement against U.S. policy in Viet Nam. SDS calls itself a left-wing, non-Communist group and is an outgrowth of the League for Industrial Democracy.

Many other organizations, including pacifist and civil rights groups, took part.

In Texas, sympathy protesters gathered about 1 1/2 miles from the LBJ Ranch where President Johnson was spending the weekend. After standing silently for about 11 hours they called off the demonstration Sunday without having presented their appeal to the President.

James Bond Adventures End In District Court For Brooklyn Mechanic

BY GEORGE ESPEY
NEW YORK (AP)—It was a tale of murder and intrigue that secret agent extraordinary Tom Romano told. He even outdid the fictional James Bond.

Tall and rugged, he induced one of his female admirers to give him $4,000 and her new automobile.

He told her of hair-raising exploits with gun and attaché case in Algeria and Cyprus, of piloting a spy plane, and of an underwater mission to Cuba.

The story ended Friday in U.S. District Court with Judge Thomas F. Murphy writing the final chapter.

FICTIONAL AGENT
As it turned out, secret agent extraordinary Tom Romano was fictional just like James Bond. He was just plain Thomas Catizone, 35, Brooklyn truck mechanic.

Following a nonjury trial, Murphy sentenced Catizone to two years in federal prison for masquerading as a Central Intelligence Agency agent.

Catizone even furnished props and sound effects for his imaginary exploits. Example: whenever one of his admirers phoned him at his Brooklyn garage, he would have a coworker race a truck engine. Then he would explain that he had no time to talk — the engine of his plane was being reved up for a quick takeoff on a cloak-and-dagger mission.

Hired Stretcher
On another page that cost him $60, he hired an ambulance and attendants, to wheel him on a stretcher into the apartment of Laura Darris, a brunette divorcee who ran a restaurant near the garage. He had told her he had been in an automobile accident outside Washington in which another agent was killed. He said he was paralyzed from the waist down.

He had met Mrs. Darris in January 1962, and subsequently induced her to give him $4,000 — almost her entire life savings — and her car.

CLAIMED COVER JOB
The 6-foot-2, 200-pound Catizone, complete with attaché case and a shoulder-holster pistol told Mrs. Darris that his brother had been killed two years earlier in the CIA. He said he was in charge of a five-man espionage group, and his mechanic's job was a cover.

He told Mrs. Darris of flying a U4 plane. It was something like the U2 plane, he explained, only it could fly higher and faster.

Once he appeared carrying an attaché case, which he told Mrs. Darris contained treaties he was taking to Washington from South Viet Nam.

Within two months after they met, Catizone told Mrs. Darris that his plane had exploded and a young mechanic had been killed. He was late for his assignment, he said, and the mechanic's family threatened to expose his dereliction unless he paid them $1,000. Mrs. Darris gave him the money.

ALIMONY MONEY
Mrs. Darris gave him $2,000 for back alimony in May, 1962, when he told her his former wife was threatening to wreck his CIA career if he didn't pay up.

A short time later, he pulled off the ambulance caper and this time it cost Mrs. Darris $1,025. The $1,000 was for the ex-wife. The $25 was cigarette money for the crippled Catizone.

Mrs. Darris never saw him again. But in February, 1963, he telephoned her that he and another agent were the only survivors of seven American frogmen who had undertaken a dangerous underwater mission to Cuba.

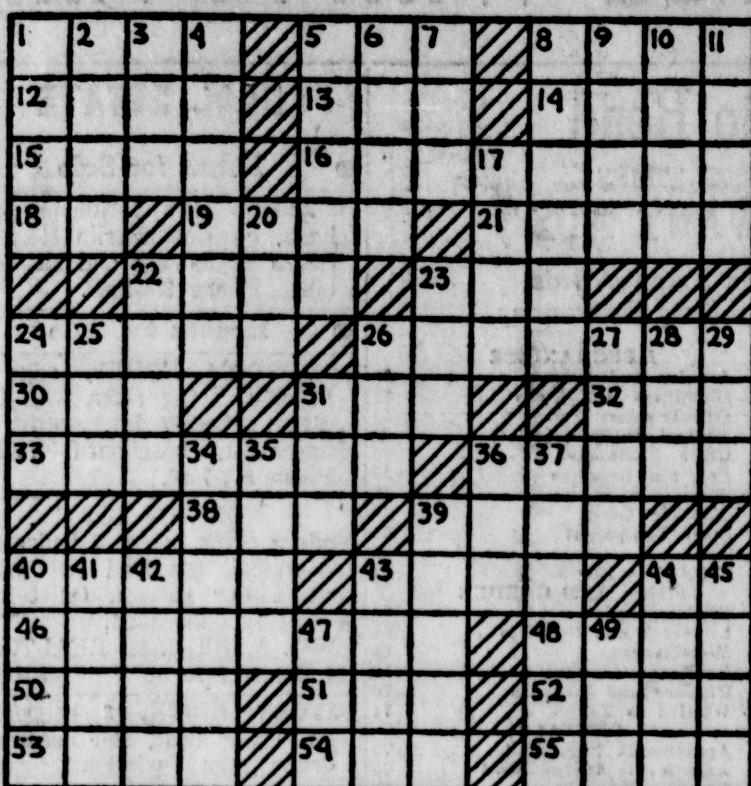

WIFE ANSWERS CALL
The masquerade ended in September, 1963, when Mrs. Darris received an anonymous telephone call from a woman who gave her the agent's home phone number. She dialed it and guess who answered? It was Mrs. Catizone, a very present wife.

Before you could say James Bond, Catizone took the phone and told Mrs. Darris to get lost or he would have her "taken care of," authorities said.

Mrs. Darris went to the FBI. Catizone has been continued in $2,500 bail for an appeal. Judge Murphy called the evidence "overwhelming."

News Briefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra start their spring tour in Toledo, Ohio, on May 4, and will present 18 concerts in cities of the Midwest, upstate New York, New England and Canada, before winding up in Hartford, Conn., nearly three weeks later. After the spring tour, Ormandy will guest conduct several major orchestras in Europe.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, has submitted a collective bargaining package to the city's board of education, asking for $1,000-a-year pay increases, improved hospital care and retirement benefits and full pay for teachers on sabbatical leave. The organization represents 10,500 public school teachers and other professional employees.

EASTON, Pa. (AP)—Fire officials sought today to determine the cause of the blaze which wrecked the interior of the Colton Memorial Chapel on the Lafayette College Campus. Fire Saturday also destroyed several glass windows in the limestone structure, which was built 50 years ago with a $100,000 gift from Mrs. Mary R. Colton.

During a railroad rate war in the mid-1880s, the fare from Kansas City to Los Angeles dropped to just $1.

T. JEFFERSON TURNS OUT TO BE TV VILLAIN

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Just about once a year some TV network has the idea of doing a special program from California's Marineland. And Sunday night CBS took us on our annual vicarious visit.

It seems to me that over the years I've inspected Marineland with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, Lloyd Bridges and the Beverly Hillbillies to mention a few. Sunday night it was the Munster family that had the difficult job of trying to provide some land-locked comedy moments for the youthful audience in "Marineland Carnival."

No matter who the human celebrities at Marineland, the only real stars are those docile, friendly porpoises, whales, walrus and even octopuses. As usual they were quite fascinating. The Munsters didn't have a chance with them around.

NBC's "Profiles in Courage," was a particularly interesting courtroom drama Sunday night. It dealt with a bitter difference in viewpoint between President Thomas Jefferson, who in 1807 wanted Aaron Burr convicted of treason, and Chief Justice John Marshall of the Supreme Court who resisted the pressures and insisted on giving Burr a fair trial and protecting his rights under the Constitution.

What made the well-written script of special interest was that President Jefferson emerged almost as the villain of the piece.

CBS has decided to change the name of its forthcoming night version of "As the World Turns" to "Our Private World" when it starts on May 2. CBS' fall schedule is pretty well set but "Our Private World," so far, has no place in it. However, should the two-part evening soap opera turn into a hit like "Peyton Place," somehow space would be found.

Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports," 10-11 EST — "The United Nations-Belaguered Fortress," "Nightlife," ABC, 11:15-1 a.m. — Dave Garroway starts a week as the show's host.

Fowler's Name On New T-Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first currency bearing the signature of Henry H. Fowler, the new secretary of the Treasury, has rolled off the press — a sheet of 32 one-dollar bills.

Following tradition, Fowler personally inspected the money as it came off the press Friday. The bills were the first from a new rotary press installed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

WOMEN USING OLD ORDINANCE

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The city revenue commissioner says some women employed by the federal government are taking advantage of an 1838 city ordinance to avoid paying the Philadelphia wage tax.

Revenue Commissioner Mortin Rotman says the old law forbids the arrest of women for debts, and the women are making the most of it.

The federal government does not withhold the wage tax, as other employers do.

Rotman said 372 women owe the city a total of $291,000 in wage taxes, interests and penalties, and the revenue commissioner said he is writing to their employers, telling them of the tax delinquencies. He says he is unable to seek their arrest to force them to pay, but he is asking their employers to tell them that failure to pay taxes is "incompatible with continued employment."
